Do you have the flooded basement blues? Due to their nature, basements being an underground structure are prone to water damage and it doesn't take a river overflowing its banks or a major hurricane to flood a basement. In fact, basement flooding more often occurs due to burst pipes, small leak and rain water build up in the surrounding soil.

There are many options to protect you home from floods, and help can be found on the internet, however, we do recommend professional advice as even the simplest mistake and inappropriate solution can cost more in a long run, we therefore advise you to contact us today for free advice and first class service.

Other prevention steps include fixing leaks, ensuring proper drainage, and installing a sump pump, however Leaks in the basement don't always originate down below. For example, if you have a leaking toilet above, where do you think the water is going to end up? Drip, drip, drip... down to the basement! We have and only use the latest technology in locating leaks.
